Community Cultural Wealth

Community Cultural Wealth (CCW) is a framework created by Dr. Tara Yosso whose foundational research is grounded in Critical Race Theory. The CCW series is an exploration of six forms of “cultural capital” that examines the talents, strengths and experiences that our Black, Indigenous and People of Color bring into educational spaces. This value-added framework helps us to challenge deficit-thinking and implicit bias as we create more inclusive and equitable spaces in our public schools.

Join Mike Ritzius, Assoc. Director of PDII and members of the Cumberland County Council of Educational Associations, Gloucester County Education Association, and Middlesex County Education Association for these two valuable events. On March 9th, the session will explore linguistic and navigational capital. REGISTER HERE! On April 20th, the session will explore resistance capital. REGISTER HERE!
